
Hidden Animals

By Frank Tapson (2004)

Source: <http://www.cleavebooks.co.uk/trol/trolgd.pdf> (Pg 35)

He came late to the meeting.

—

Have a go at the coconut-shy.

Eric owes me a pound.

—

My teeth are more sensitive than yours.

—

Did you lose all your money?

I left the book upon your desk.

—

Would you like to have a pear?

—

They found they had got termites in the woodwork.

—

He is to be architect of the proposed building.

The Arab bit his lip in anger.

Erica told her sister to hurry up.

Gannets have longer bills than gulls.

I hope you didn't pick up any bad germs while on holiday.

The diver took a canister of oxygen from the store.

Lamb is on special offer this week.

—

“This is the best oat crop for miles”, said the farmer.

—

Surely you cannot be averse to taking tea?

—

They watched the plane landing on the runway.

—

Give me a map and a compass and I will find my way.

They built a bridge to span the river.

—

We always have dinner at one o'clock.

I abhor seeing animals ill-treated.

I said to Pip, “Ignore him!”

In peat I germinate seeds in trays.

—

He lost the portfolio near the office.

Please do go to visit Granny tomorrow.

I think you have made errors in this work.

All amateurs are eligible to run.

—

He was either truanting, or ill, at the end of term

Opera House warns its clientele: “Phantom at large”